Dear Mr Raffaelli,

From time to time in my career in youth work, events occur that rekindle my faith in young people and that become precious moments that will be long remembered. One such event recently took place and it involved Dunbar Grammar School pupils.

The Peace Ambassadors group, working with Dunbar Rotary Club raised £150 for the group, donated several board games and organised an egg hunt. Three of your pupils came over to the group and were brilliant in organising games and interacting with the children. We threw them in at the deep end with a group of lively boys which they quickly had under control and engaged in a game. They were also a real hit with our girls who enjoyed having them there and would like to see them return. Please pass on our appreciation to Meghan, Samantha and Izzy.

Whilst Harbour Lights is primarily focused on children and young people, it is evolving into a community resource where we are seeing all generations working together to improve the lives of those who attend. This recent event illustrates this well and we hope for more like it in the future.

On behalf of all the children, young people and volunteers at the Harbour Lights youth group I would like to pass on our thanks to the Peace Ambassadors group for their generous help and support.

Yours sincerely,

Richard Taylor
