The Schools' Lectures Series is Returning to the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh Autumn 2022

The Schools' Lecture Series is a three-day event that helps prepare a student for a future in medicine. Altogether, the lecture series will detail the process of applying for medical school, highlight various medical specialties, and discuss the ethics of medicine that physicians encounter on a daily basis.

Where and When

28 September Wednesday- Becoming A Doctor

3 October Monday - Physician's Pathways

5 October Wednesday- Ethical Dilemmas in Medicine

Each lecture will take place between 16:30 - 18:00

The lectures will be held in the Great Hall at 11 Queen Street, Edinburgh. We encourage everyone to come to every event in person, if you are able. There is an enlightening Q&A that you won't want to miss!

If you cannot come in person, its okay. Lectures will be recorded and posted online shortly thereafter. Be sure to send us your email so we can let you know once the lectures are posted.

Any Questions? Just email Debra Davis (that's me!) at d.davis@rcpe.ac.uk I'm always happy to chat!

How Do I Sign Up?

Send an email to d.davis@rcpe.ac.uk and we will send you "early bird" access to the event on EventBrite nearer the time.

Can't wait? No problem! Send us an email with the number of seats you'd like us to reserve and we'll be sure to set them aside for you!

Who Can Attend?

Any secondary student who is even the least bit interested in medicine is encouraged to attend.

The event is absolutely free!

Students are encouraged to bring family members, carers, teachers and anyone else who provides support to their future goals.
