Parent/ Carer Update 5th February

Dear Parents/ Carers,

It has been another eventful week with the most recent update from the First Minister announcing the phased return of some of our children from 22nd February. We are hopeful with this announcement that there comes some light in what has been a challenging time for many.

We are still awaiting further guidance from the Scottish Government detailing what this return may look like for some of our children and for it be confirmed as safe to proceed with on 16th February. I will communicate the plans for this return with you by Friday 19th February.

I realise that this announcement does also bring with it many uncertainties for families and with this in mind have arranged another parent/ carer drop in session for Friday 19th February at 11am. This can be accessed via the following link: <https://meet.google.com/hxc-coym-atf>.

February Holiday

A reminder that we will be on holiday next week with staff returning for an in-service day on 15th February. Learning on Google Classroom will recommence on Tuesday 16th February. There will be no google classroom updates or in-school provision during this period of time.

We hope that whatever you are doing over the coming week you have a restful break and once again thank you for your on-going support.

Wishing you all a safe and relaxing weekend ahead,

Mrs Davies and all at St Martin's Primary
