Workshop choices

Workshop 1: Risk benefit assessment: A balanced approach to risk: Tim Gill Risk-benefit assessment is a positive approach to risk, founded on the principle of thoughtfully weighing up risks alongside benefits. Tim's workshop will explore how this approach works in practice and its relevance to playworkers and educators.
Workshop 2: Creating engaging play environments: Jennifer Brownlie – MAP Little Children Love to Play! This workshop will explore how you can create engaging play environments for our youngest children. Find out how to create a fun play environment using materials which are easy to find and discover new play ideas for children under 3.
Workshop 3: Junk toys and experiments: Ivan Harper This practical workshop will be a foray into the exciting things you and the children can make to play with out of junk. Find out how to engage the inner scientists, inventors and constructors in the children and impress them with simple toys and experiments with wow factor. Amongst other things, this will include making a water rocket – you won't believe how high they go! It will be outdoors so remember to wrap up.
Workshop 4: Nature play: Louise Caldwell - City of Edinburgh Council In this workshop we will be exploring nature play activities, which engage children's creativity and capture their imaginations. Come ready to explore the outdoors and make small worlds, magical creatures, maps and journeys with stories to tell around a small fire. Mind your waterproofs and wellies!
Workshop 5: Play with Fire: Lesley Creevy and Anne-Marie Mackin, Play First Scotland This workshop aims to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - instil confidence in the use of fire in play settings - explore the benefits of using and looking at different methods of making fire - provide an opportunity to experiment with simple and fun ways of cooking using fire Workshop content

We will explore the importance of using fire and the part it plays in children's development, health and well being. We will look at graduated risk and the importance of working with our own comfort zones. We will experiment with different methods of making fire and participate in cooking quick and simple campfire snacks and think about what we might do around a campfire in our settings.
Workshop 6: Equally playful outdoors: Theresa Casey Every child should have opportunities to play outdoors, experience all kinds of weather and have a good old muck about in mud, rain or sunshine! This workshop will consider how to ensure our opportunities for playing outdoors are as inclusive as possible. We'll swap ideas about what works and do some problem solving to create accessible and social play opportunities outdoors.
Workshop 7: Play with Music for Children under 5: Starcatchers This workshop explores music with Early Years and reflects a playful, creative, and child-centred approach. The session is designed to be practical, accessible and inspirational through sharing a toolkit of music activities that are open-ended and adaptable to different ages, settings and themes, and one that enables practitioners to explore their own creative and artistic capabilities in a supportive environment.
